GREAT JAVANAIS IS IN RICHMOND

The Famous Imported French Coach Horse Brings His Blue Blood to Virginia.

Colonel Barton Grundy upon his having secured from the celebrated breeding farm of Miller and Sibley, of Franklin, farm of Miller and Sibley, of Franklin, Pennsylvania, the famous French coachhorse stallion Javanais (by Agnadel; first cam, Rapide), and bringing him home to enrich the quality of Virginia horses with his fine "blue" blood, Colonel Grundy's acquaintance with Javenais has existed for a long while, and the evidence of his admiration for the stock which that thoroughbred represents is seen in his two handsome horses, Sapho and Nizam, both of them prize-winners at the Richmond liorse Show and the Deep Run Hunt Club spring meetings.

Javanais was imported to the United States in 1890 by Dr. Seward Webb, of New York, who sold him to Miller and Sibley, from whom he comes to Colonel Grundy. He was hitched and driven at ence upon his arrival to Bloomingdale farm, on the Hermitage Road, where Mr. Harry C. Beattle, M. F. H. of the Deep Run Hunt Club, will have charge of him. Many drivers and hunting men were at Ploomingdale yesterday afternoon to see the importation, and were delighted with his superb lines and noble carriage. The borse was bred by Le Sieur de Gourbaville at Manche, France. He took third prize at the great Government Horse Show at St. Lo, France, in June, 1900, and was bought and shipped at once by Dr. Webb, who was offered in exchange for him the first-prize winner and quite a lump of money. In "personal appearance" Javanals is colored all over a rich seal brown; he is 16 hands 2 inches high and weighs upware of thirteen hundred pounds. His fect are perfection, and his legs and shoulders, thighs and hips are superbly proportioned. While he is a rangy horse, with elegant carriage of head, he is closely ribbed and has the roundness of barrel characteristic of his breed. He is of a very gentle disposition, handles quietly, at the same time exhibiting with high spirit and with fine, quick action in the

It is improbable, in view of this importa-nat "Bloomingdale," that Virginia y become a notable breeder of coach ses, as she is now famous for her kneys, as illustrated by the product Senator Fairfax's farm, and for her roughbred trotters and saddlers from f a dozen private tracks and sta-ts.

A Young Portsmouth Lawyer Stirs the Hearts of Virginians at St. Louis.

One of the most beautiful tributes paid to Virginia in a long time was that contained in the peretration of Mr. T. J. Wool, of Portsmouth, who responded to a toast last Saturday evening in St. Louis, at the dinner given the Virginia delegation to the World's Fair opening by the Virginia Society of that city. The closing words of Mr. Wool were as follows:

The eye of the connelsseur dwells with undisguised pleasure upon the majestic works of art, the grand legacies of the old masters, but his heart is most touched by some simple sketch from an unknown hand, which calls to mind the scenes of home, the land of his birth and children.

"What, then, must be our feelings as we contemplate the gorgeous panorama which is spread out before us in imagination as the word Virginia echoes in our ears!

"Virginia! We see thy mountains piled weak on peak, each trying to reach higher up toward Heaven; thy vaileys bending with their load of grain; thy gentle hills and sloping plains covered with the verdure of the spring time, or clad in a manife of fallen leaves, thy beautiful seaconst forever kissed by the ocean's changeless affection. We hear the musical roar of thy torrents as they rush like maddened maniacs down the mountain sides. We see thy calm and peaceful rivers, winding majestically through plain and vailey, beautifying the land and carrying with them innumerable blessings.

We gaze enraptured upon thy many natural curiosities and peculiar formations and turn from them only to be lost in wonderment as we look out upon old cecan's never fading line of blue, strefching from pole to pole and from continent to continent, over whose fretful bosom so many precious argossles go back and forth.

"Virginia! Land of Washington and Jefferson, of Lee and Jackson, and an Innumerable band of particls and statesmen, land of past glory and present privileges, of home and kindred—we honor we adore thee, and pray that thou mayst continue to be an asylum for the oppressed, the land of fere and the home of the brave."

HEN we started to manufacture DUNLOP PATENT ten years ago, our capacity was 350 barrels daily. The excellent quality of the Flour soon took the nublic fancy; one housekeeper would tell another of the splendid baking results, the delicious bread and pastry it makes, until we were forced to gradually enlarge our capacity, fight to 500 barrels, then to 600, then to 800, next to 1,000, and at this point we found it was necessary to buy or build another mill. At this time the Gallego Mills were purchased, all of the antiquated machinery torn out from basergent to roof, and a splendid new mill of 1,200 barrels daily capacity was installed, giving us, with our two flour mills, a daily capacity of 2,200 barrels. The growth of our milling business from one of modest beginnings to its present magnificent proportions is due to our producing a Flour that stands unequalled in the opinion of the best breadmakers. There is a flavor, a taste, a delicious taste, in bread made from DUNLOP PATENT, that is entirely absent from the preadmaker a meal on bread from DUNLOP PATENT, and enloy every mouthfull. made from other flours. One can make a meal on bread from DUN-LOP PATENT, and enjoy every mouthful. Bread eaters on four continents all testify to its unvarying excellence.

Here is a letter from one firm of importers, who are the largest importers of Flour in the whole of Great Britain. These gentlemen buy our Flour in ship-loads; their purchases are distributed all over England and Ireland. To give some lidea of the demand we will say that we have had at Newport News, awaiting steamers, 40,000 bags, or 200 car-loads, or the equivalent of 10 train-loads of 20 cars each. Here is what they say about DUNLOP PATENT:

Liverpool, April 29, 1903.

The Dunlop Mills, Richmond, Va;
Gentlemen.—We are glad to be able to confirm to you that since we first started business with you in the year 1898, five years ago, our business with you from the very small beginnings has risen to very large proportions; so much so that we had repeatedly to ask you to greatly enlarge your production, and we are glad to say that we have thus been enabled to see the rise of your mills from relatively small proportions to one of the largest winter-wheat mills in the United States, producing, as you do now, 2,500 barriels daily.

This large development of the business between us would, of course, have been quite impossible had not your Flour given entire satisfaction to our numerous customers. In particular, we are glad to confirm to you that it has not only been uniformly excellent, but always most regular in quality.

We can only wish you continued

but always meet ity.

We can only wish you continued success in your enterprise, and feel inclined to predict that in all probability the continued extension of demand for your excellent Flour will lead to a further enlargement of your milling capacity.

Yours faithfully. Yours faithfully, KRUGER, DARSIE & CO.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

Harry Tucker Answer-Where does he stand?

The curfew beil did not ring out, for sooth, because, 'twas said,
That Harry Glenn had not, ecog, gond to his downy bed.
The bell was tolled some years ago, because 'twas freely told
That youngsters should not stay out late, as in the days of old;
There were no lights of any kind, electric sparks or gas,
And through the streets pedestrians could not with safety pass.
But things have changed in modern times, as we can plainly see.

as we can plainly see,
And folks should not stay out at night

the law should plainly be.

We have been invited by the Olympia-Club, of Manchester, to make a few remarks at the entertainment to be given at Leader Hall next Thursday night for the West Point sufferers from the fire.

We accept the invitation, and wish to hereby extend our thanks for the opportunity, for we believe that everybody should contribute at least twenty-five cents to the cause, for we don't know when our house may be consumed by flames, and then we hope the Olympias will come forward to help us out.

We wish they would come forward now and help in paying our back rent, so we could stop dodging the landlord. At any rate, we will do all we can to help our fellow-sufferers at West Point out of a hole, and we only hope that Mr. G. Guvernator may feel inclined to ask us down to his place of entertainment to take a few days' rest from the turmoll and strife that comes to us at the first of every month.

It is with regret that we record the fact that Mr. Barrett was not at the meeting of the Manchester Finance Com-mittee mittee.

One of the main reasons why we go to these meetings is to hear Mr. Barrett make his speeches. We like to hear him talk, and we hope that he will make it a point not to miss any more meetings, for we always get seme good tips from him.

With the filling out of the leaves on the things under our vest we feel that we owe to the sweet young things at Kirkwood's many thanks.

There is nothing on the bill of fare that pleases us more than buttermilk, and upon that we feel that all our ponderous weight is due.
